By Public Affairs Staff

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. – More than 90 students from the clubs of geology, nursing and health science at Cal State San Bernardino will plant 375 native oak trees Saturday, Jan. 21, and Sunday, Jan. 20, in partnership with Watson and Associates, the Seal Beach-based company that is developing the land at the southwest corner of Northpark Boulevard and University Parkway.

After planting the trees and applying a gel-like material that will keep them watered for the first 60-90 days, the students will look after the trees for two years.

The trees will be planted along Northpark Boulevard directly across the street from the campus parking lot B. The students begin their work at 8 a.m.

Watson and Associates is donating the funds for the trees as well as funds to the three clubs that are doing the work.

For more information, call the Cal State San Bernardino geological sciences department at (909) 537-5336.
